Business of the Week Exeter Guardian Pharmacy

By Dan Rankin

Our Business of the Week is the independently-owned and operated Exeter Guardian Pharmacy, located at 38-44 Thames Road East in Exeter since November 2014.

Exeter Guardian Pharmacy offers a wide range of products and services all under one roof. As well as being a retail pharmacy, carrying everything from vitamins to first aid products and greeting cards, their products include cosmetics and gifts as well, said McLean. "We also have home healthcare products in our store, as well as a post office. We're a postal dealer with Canada Post, and we also have a photo lab. We do photo services and we take passport photos as well."

The store's home healthcare department offers rentals on such items as wheelchairs, walkers and canes, and sells ostomy supplies, McLean said. "If you get a prescription from your doctor, you can come in and get fitted for compression stockings," she said. "I can also do special orders for anything in the home healthcare department."

Among the store's 33 employees are two pharmacists who, apart from filling prescriptions also do diabetic counseling, blood pressure tests, fill medication blister packs, do med-checks, run ideal protein clinics and are certified to provide flu-shots when that season rolls around again. Guardian offers free delivery for prescriptions for most of the region, including from Kirkton to Zurich and Dashwood to Seaford, McLean said.

"Pharmacists are your most accessible healthcare professionals," said pharmacy manager Daniel Marchioni. "If anyone has questions, that's what we're here for. New moms, if they're curious about changing a baby's formula, or if the baby has a diaper rash – if they juts need some guidance, they can even call. But, we prefer in-person, as, sometimes it's hard to diagnose a rash over the phone."

Today, from 4:00 pm to 10:00 pm, Exeter Guardian Pharmacy is taking part in the BIA's Ladies Night event, with special promotions in store. Every Thursday is Senior's Day, when seniors receive 20 percent off regular priced items in the store, McLean said. "We also have loyalty cards," she added. "You can accumulate points on your purchases and when you get to certain levels you can redeem them for free things. Exclusions apply, come by the store for more details"

Cosmetics Manager Stacey Kirk also regularly offers promotions, McLean said, on top of the scheduled consultations she offers by appointment. "There are a few lines in the cosmetic department that Stacey has brought to the store, including Sweet Leilani and Mistura,"

she added. "They're both Canadian companies."

Throughout the store they also carry their house brand Atoma, she said. "They're more affordable items ranging from hair accessories, to analgesics, to vitamins," said McLean.

Exeter Guardian Pharmacy is open Monday to Friday from 8:00 am to 8:00 pm, Saturdays from 9:00 am to 5:00 pm, and Sundays 10:00 am to 5:00 pm. "We are open holidays as well, 10:00 am to 5:00 pm," McLean added.

For more information, find Exeter Guardian Pharmacy on Facebook, visit their website at ExeterPharmacy.com, or call 519-235-1570. For specific department extensions, consult the store's website.
